FA(I)RE?

IT is to laugh.
That is it would be if it didn't hit our pocket book such a terrible jolt.
The Golden Gate Ferry company—yes it's the same organization that wanted to operate a ferry between San Francisco and Berkeley and was denied permission by the State Railroad Commission—wants to reduce its ferry rates between San Francisco and Sausalito by ten per cent. But some one gunned up the works for the railroad commission for while the Golden Gate Ferry company officials were preparing their petition to the commission, asking for permission to decrease the rate, H. G. Mathewson, secretary of the commission was stewing over an announcement to the public that the commission believed it necessary to increase the same rates that the company wants reduced.
Oh! Hum! It's getting to be an old story and a most pathetic one. If our memory does not fail us the commission did not take very long to increase the street car fares in the East Bay as well as the ferry fares when the Key System and the Southern Pacific company asked a temporary increase. The cars rattled just as hard, the service did not improve and for no reason whatever that can justify be understood we were forced to pay an additional one cent—Richmond three cents—to be permitted to buy some old antiquated equipment for the street car company so that when we had it paid for they could charge us all over again for it.
Now when a company comes in good faith and wants to reduce its fares, the commission wants it to wait until it can look into the matter. Probably with the same experts who declared the company was on the verge of bankruptcy on the eve of the announcement by the company that it wanted to reduce its fares.
Oh well. The entire thing is so ridiculous that it boggles discussion. We suggest an investigation of the entire transportation and fare situation in the Eastbay and San Francisco bay section. The unbiased report might be interesting.

C. OF C. PLANS PARADE FOR THE OPENING OF THE NATATORIUM

Committee Heads Are Appointed To Arrange Plans for Big Opening March 20

Tentative plans for a trade extension tour, or booster parade through Contra Costa county on March 18, and the program to be held at the opening of the Municipal Natatorium were discussed at a meeting of the Civic Affairs committee of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon.
The committee of which Aubrey Wilson is the chairman, appointed the following committee heads to arrange for the parade and the program at the opening: C. C. Kratzer, general chairman, booster parade; J. C. Hitchcock, general chairman Saturday's bathhouse parade; Aubrey Wilson, master of ceremonies; Harley R. Carter, special feature committee.
It is now planned to combine the trade extension tour, which was planned by the Merchants Association with the Chamber of Commerce booster parade on March 18. The Contra Costa County Board of Realtors had also planned a tour of the county for that day. According to E. B. Ball, president of the realtors, they will assist with the Chamber of Commerce tour in every way possible.
Just what plans will be followed out or what route will be taken by the parade on Thursday, had not been definitely decided. The details of the parade and other plans will be taken up at the future meeting of the chairman, which were appointed yesterday.
It is planned to secure a band for the event at the bathhouse on Saturday afternoon. Several features which were suggested at the meeting yesterday afternoon promise to make the celebration a week from Saturday an outstanding one.

RADIO CLUB ADOPTS NAME

"The Radiator Club"—that is the new name selected as the most fitting for its activities by a group of radio enthusiasts last night. The name submitted by Mrs. O. Jackson, wins her a year service on her radio set by the Pearson Radio company.

A lively meeting was held last night when the name was adopted with Donnelly presiding over the session.

Struggling Young Artist To Share Billion Dollar Estate of English Noble

The British consul in San Francisco has finally located Alexander Stern, who establishes a direct relationship. This young artist has won quite a bit of fame for his etchings, but he has found it rather difficult to live on fame alone. Now he has the best of prospects of sharing in Lord Lansdowne's billion-dollar estate.

ILLICIT LIQUOR TAKES TOLL OF 142 IN STATE

(By Universal Service)
SACRAMENTO, Mar. 11.—The toll of illicit liquor in California during 1925 was 142 lives, not counting persons who died from drinking beverages classified as poisonous, and the total of deaths during the last five years of prohibition now stands at 607, according to figures supplied by the state bureau of vital statistics.
Alcoholism caused nearly four times as many deaths last year as in 1920, the year after prohibition became effective. During that year only 37 deaths were attributed to liquor.
Though state statistics have no available figures on deaths caused by poison liquor, they announced California deaths from acute and chronic alcoholism in the last half decade as follows: 1921—69; 1922—110; 1923—125; 1924—161; 1925—142.

The trade extension tour which had been planned by the merchants was combined with the one planned by the Chamber of Commerce. A committee composed of Ward McCracken, A. L. Furrer, and E. C. Crane met with the Civic Affairs committee of the Chamber yesterday afternoon to discuss the parade.
The merchants plan to put in special window decorations and in other ways put on a festive cloak for the day of the opening of the Municipal Natatorium March 20. Additional plans of the decorations are to be discussed at a later date.

SALVATION OF LEAGUE RESTS WITH BRIAND SAYS FRANCE

French Regard Present Situation Most Critical in Life Of The League

(By Universal Service)
PARIS, March 11.—The salvation of the League of Nations depends on Aristide Briand and the fate of Briand's ninth cabinet depends on his ability to avert a general crisis at Geneva. This is the French view of the threatening developments of the day, generally regarded as the most critical moment in the life of the league. These developments were:
1. The "Temps", the semi-official organ of the French government, announced that "if Briand is unable to reconcile within forty-eight hours, the league's death-knell would strike."
2. The announcement that the German delegation, headed by Chancellor Luther and Foreign Minister Stresemann, would leave Geneva for Berlin on Friday if the situation remains unchanged.
3. The threat of the Italian delegate, Signor Scialoja, to veto Germany's entry unless Poland is given a permanent seat on the council of the league.
4. The report that the Swedish delegate, M. Unden, following the arrival of Briand, is inclined to withdraw his proposed veto of the admission of any nation except Germany to the council.
5. The fear in British official circles that Brazil and others will withdraw from the league, greatly weakening it in South America.
6. The announcement of Senor Yanguas of Spain that he would veto Germany's admission unless Spain is given a permanent seat on the council.
7. Satisfaction expressed in Moscow over the conflict at Geneva.
The Soviet view is that the quarrel in the league will ultimately land to the formation of two hostile camps centering around France and Great Britain, and culminating in war.
8. Briand's optimistic statement to Universal service, in which he declared his firm resolve to continue the Locarno policy to give Europe peace and tranquility. "We must permit nothing to interfere with it," said the French premier upon his arrival in Geneva.
9. Briand's first futile attempt to end the deadlock at a series of private conferences. Briand conferred with Chamberlain, then with Luther and Stresemann, and afterwards participated in a secret session of the league's council. According to the French delegate Buncour, Briand succeeded in relieving somewhat the tension and is hopeful of a solution.

TRY TO BREAK PATENT RIGHT OF OIL FIRM

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, March 11.—Attorney General Sargent today filed suit in United States court in Brooklyn to cancel the so-called Adams Patents, basic patents of the gasoline "cracking process."
The Texas company, $200,000,000 oil concern with offices in New York and Joseph H. Adams, the alleged inventor of Brooklyn, are the defendants.
Sixteen patents, valued at from $40,000,000 to $70,000,000 are involved. They are owned by the Texas company.
The government alleges that through control of the patents, which it claims Adams secured by fraud, the Texas company has a practical monopoly on the gasoline cracking processes.
It declares that the Texas company, and other oil concerns which lease the patents from it, do a business of hundreds of millions of dollars annually under the so-called Adams process.
Billions of gallons of gasoline are every year refined by this process, the government charges.
The Texas company is charged in the bill as participating in the alleged fraudulent securing of the patents.

Transportation Bills Must Pass Says President

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 11.—With the end of Congress definitely in sight by the middle of May, President Coolidge today called upon Congressional leaders for a showdown on his broad program to improve both the rail and water transportation facilities of the country.
In a series of White House conferences, President Coolidge was advised by judicial, legislative, executive and military leaders, "that the railroad bill, supported by the President and backed by fifty railroads and 750,000 employees to substitute the 'rule of reason' for possible strikes and lockouts will be passed without difficulty."
2. That the "Cummings bill, to force the railroads to consolidate into a few great systems within the next five years, will make its way through the Senate in amended form, but doubtless will be defeated by delay in the House."
3. That the Gooding long-haul and short-haul bill, designed to abolish reduced rates for long hauls of freight, has only a "fair" chance of success.
4. That the president's desire to vest operation of the merchant marine in an executive board and to give the United States shipping board merely judicial authority over rates and routes, "has not a ghost of a chance" of passage at this session.
Senator McNary of Oregon advised the President that the Jones bill, fulfilling the President's desire for a shakeup of the ship management, is without sufficient backing even to bring it out favorably from the Senate Commerce committee, of which Senator Jones is chairman.
"All the Democrats and three of the Republican committee men will vote against it, and I am one of the latter," said McNary.
Insisting that a new control of the Merchant Marine is necessary to establish its success, President Coolidge plainly indicated he will fight for the bill until Congress adopts it, whether this year or next.

MOST DRASTIC LABOR LAW IN ENTIRE WORLD

Law Compels Arbitration and Makes Verdict of Arbitrators Final

SOCIALISM IS ATTACKED
Passage of Law Follows Foreful Address by Premier Mussolini

ROME, March 11.—The Italian Senate tonight passed by a vote of 139 to 27 the most revolutionary labor law in the history of the world. It is a law which forbids strikes, enforces arbitration and creates labor courts made up of representatives of employers, employees and the public with power to compel the acceptance of verdicts.

The passage of the law followed a powerful speech by Premier Mussolini in which the one-time leader of Italian socialism sacrificed that cult as aiming at the destruction of civilization, riddled the Socialist doctrine of capital being "wrung from the blood and sweat of toilers" and praised the brains, thrift and genius of those who have gone before as well as those who are directing the world work today.
The premier brought the senators to their feet when he proclaimed that the rights of capital must be protected, but that they are no more sacred than the rights of the humblest toiler.
"Strikes are the greatest evil of the modern world," declared the premier.
"They have not been justified. They have cost millions of dollars in the last few years in France, England and America, one strike over a few minutes in the slowness of a clock throwing thousands out of work for 20 days."

CAMPAIGN WILL SOON BE ON

Now that democrats have broken the political ice in a meeting here in which they are promising to open an active fight for the senate and the house this fall, the political pot on Washington is beginning to bubble anew. Before long the primary campaigns will be on in many states and the real struggle of 1926 will be started.

The democrats fired their opening gun, which was a very mild one, at a dinner held by Senator Walsh in Washington, at which Franklin D. Roosevelt was the guest of honor. Those who attended insist that there was no talk about displacing Clem Shaver, the present chairman of the democratic national committee for a new man, but it cannot be denied that there is an increasing demand among democratic statesmen in Washington for increased activity on the part of the national committee which has been very quiet since the 1924 disaster.

The leaders who attended the banquet urged greater cooperation between the democrats of the house and senate in shaping legislation and great activity on the part of the national, congressional and senatorial committees. It was generally agreed that the campaign issue this year will be the tariff, and that an effort will be made to wean away the western states from republican support of the protective tariff.

The republican leaders say that they are willing and anxious to meet the democrats on the tariff issue and that they will be ready to battle when the gong for action sounds. All signs warrant the prediction that the battle of 1926 will be one of the hottest congressional and senatorial campaigns waged in many years.

ABOUT MONOPOLIES

The New York World is somewhat perturbed over the world of caution given to farmers by Secretary of Agriculture Jardine against overproduction. According to the newspaper this smacks very much of government regulation or interference of some sort that may be as objectionable as the British rubber monopoly. But it is a little difficult to justify the rubber monopoly on the strength of Mr. Jardine's advice to the farmers to beware of overproduction.

In the first place rubber growing has become a real monopoly, as the result of the recently curtailment in the output proves. But the American farmer doesn't have a monopoly on anything and it is doubtful whether he ever will. It is easy to go into the business of raising wheat, and corn and oats. This can be done almost anywhere within the temperate zone and it is at worst but a one year proposition. The rubber growing industry is more difficult to start and several years are required to get a paying yield. It is therefore especially susceptible to monopoly.

The sensitiveness of newspapers like the World over any criticism of European monopolies is almost pathetic. The rubber hold-up is perfectly all right because it is European and its principal burden falls upon American consumers. But a wheat and corn monopoly in America, were such a thing possible, raising prices in Europe would cause our international newspapers to utter the most excruciating cries of anguish. Even a mere word of caution to the poor farmers about overproduction gives them chills of uneasiness.

How pleasant the world would be if only the right people had an inferiority complex.—Boston Post.

Some Pages from American History

By VICTOR MORGAN

LETTERS BY COLONIAL POST

When our modern man writes a letter, he drops it in a mail box. And Uncle Sam does the rest within a very short time. If the letter isn't delivered within five days, the business man wants it returned to him, and promptly. He thinks that his business will only run smoothly if he can serve very prompt delivery of his letters, and if they are not returned to him within a couple of weeks, he knows that they have been received.

But the colonial business man had no such easy time of it. His letters were carried by post riders. These riders followed the main road where there was a main road. After that, they had to find their way along the Indian trails in the forests as best they could. It was a hard enough job. Nor did the mail go out at regular intervals. Whenever the post rider had enough mail to pay him to make the trip he set out on his journey.

In the outlying districts families were lucky if they received mail once a month. Of course in the cities it was better, because the roads were good and there was more business.

Since letters came so seldom news did not travel very fast. There were no newspapers as we know them. In the year 1704 Boston got out a little sheet called the Boston News Letter. This has been called the first permanent newspaper in America. By the time that the Revolution broke out there were thirty-seven of these papers.

However, these newspapers were all weekly papers. The first daily came after the Revolution was fought and won.

Of course these first papers were small and badly printed. They contained very little of what we would call news. But they were a beginning.

Since letters and news travelled so slowly, you can see with what difficulty the colonists who lived in outlying tracts and on the frontier were kept in touch with their government.

ANIMAL EMBROIDERIES MAKE THE SCARF A CHARMING ACCESSORY

Unusual Motifs, First Used on Sports Apparel, Now Considered Generally Acceptable for their Originality

By MONA MULLEN

AS HAS been stated time and again, fashion is very sensitive to the influence of news events. Any happening that finds frequent place on the front pages of the newspapers is sooner or later sure to be reflected in some phase of the mode.

Hence fashion this season has elected to glorify the hunting expeditions of prominent groups of American and English travelers in the interest of science. So the animal embroideries are of transcendent interest. First, they appeared on sports-wear; now they are generally used.

The scarf pictured is made of dark-brown crepe Roma, hemmed with a deep band of tan self-material. It is embroidered with a bear's head, done in shades of brown, with amber for the eyes and touches of deep cream for the inner edges of the ears. The transfer supplies one left and one right each of five animal motifs for trimming frocks and blouses. The dogs are 11½ inches high, the elephant 7 inches, camel 5 inches, fox 8½ inches—sly fellow "that he is, getting the most of the height, next the dogs—and the bear, 6 inches.

The stitches required to develop the motifs most effectively are running, raised satin, outline, and one-stitch. Not only are the motifs appropriate for the decoration of accessories for personal use, but they may be featured on cushions, pillows, scarfs, etc., for the library, for a man's den, etc.

The elephant offers fine opportunities for elaborate effect, because a great deal of color, combined with gold or silver, could be used in the robe that is thrown over his back. These motifs are also appropriate for appliqué embroidery.

Why doesn't somebody discover how to make rubber synthetically out of the congressional record?

Daily Fashion Hint

CONSPICUOUSLY SMART

Concentration is placed upon figured silks this season, and fashion still finds many ways of making the silhouette interesting. This model in printed crepe has extended shoulders and long sleeves finished with cuffs of plain silk. The front is straight and flat for its full length, but a dounce at the sides and back gives an amusing ripple to the model. Medium size requires 3½ yards 36-inch material.

The GOLDEN COCOON

by RUTH CROSS

Copyright, 1924, by Harper & Brothers
"The Golden Cocoon" with Helene Chadwick is a pictorialization of this novel by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS
Molly Cochran, now doing dramatic writing in New York, goes to Washington to see her husband, former Texas Governor, whom she left when fearful she would imperil his political future. He is now engaged in war work. But Cochran pretends not to know her. His wife, he says, was drowned, as newspapers reported. Molly's mission is to warn Cochran of another danger threatening him, but she refuses to listen.

He put her into a taxi, gave some order to the driver. After a time she told him incoherently, a little here and a little there—everything. It was mercy and salvation to have him to tell it to—to be able to talk about it.
"You must let me go to him," he said at last. "You see, you didn't really explain anything."
"I couldn't—I wouldn't let me," she said. "I'm the logical one to do it, anyhow. He's probably jealous as the devil."
Molly shook her head. "No, he's not jealous. He's not anything. For him I simply don't exist, that's all. Besides this other woman—"
"Don't you see how it would look—like a dog in the manger—as I'd only come back to stop him from marrying her? No, I shall never tell him—I didn't mean to tell him. Anyway, it doesn't matter about me. I want only his happiness."
"And I want only what is for your happiness," she said. "I know." She laid her hands for a moment over his. "I can't think what I should have done if you hadn't come."

CHAPTER XXXI
It was not until she was saying good-by to Eldredge at the station in New York some weeks later that she remembered that other homecoming so long ago. Autumn had been and how she had longed then to stoop and kiss the earth beneath her feet. She remembered that other homecoming so long ago. Autumn had been and how she had longed then to stoop and kiss the earth beneath her feet. She remembered that other homecoming so long ago. Autumn had been and how she had longed then to stoop and kiss the earth beneath her feet.

The sun hid itself over behind the Gothic towers, and the South-east wind did cool, accented penance for the heat and burden of the day. A thin new moon lifted its silver horn above the channel's level buttresses, and still Molly lingered on—to think and to dream. The past rushed over her like the first deep whiff of ether, hazy, her door, blotted out new landmarks. Faces, voices, scenes—some long forgotten. She thought of Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Parker with her little pink-knot body her humor wrinkled face, her heart of gold—gone long since to her reward. A rich and generous reward it must be.

She thought of her mother in the faded calico wrapper, thrusting back the damp tendrils from her face with the worn, harassed motion. Her mother—she had spent herself, her youth, her strength her very bone and blood, to bring them forth. She had shriveled and fallen into dust like a dried seed pod after the seeds are scattered. And what had they done for her? Nothing, nothing at all.

She thought of her father, bland and benignant in his unpaid for pine coffin—of Larry. . . . On the Avenue she had noted a handsome black-and-gold sign, lettered, "Judge James Larrabee Shannon." She had passed and re-passed it—lingeringly; old ties, old affections, straining fiercely at her heart. But, no, it was not—better always the dead should remain dead, better the ghostly should not intrude their ghostly on the living. He was prosperous, successful—with a position to be maintained, no doubt. There might be bitterness and recrimination, the old flame of intolerance breaking out. Strange they had all been like that; deep down, perhaps, affection, but at the surface reacting on one another in violent and corrosive sublimates. Strange that the mildest and gentlest of women should have brought forth such a quarrelsome, contentious brood.

Stephen's thought of him persisted too. Stephen strolling round the corner at dusk with his inimitable leishureliness. Stephen smiling at her his sphinxlike God-out-of-the-machine smile. Stephen glorious and beautiful to her as a god. Stephen in hunky uniform, hurrying to help Eldredge with his coat, accepting his fee—Stephen of the trembling hands and twitching muscles. Then Stephen—torn, mangled, never-to-be-mistaken—dust to dust. It seemed too cruel, too dreadful.

That Molly he had feigned to love—that violent, headstrong Molly. She could all but see her swinging along the path now between the bluebonnets, with the buoyant, never-to-be-mistaken stride of one predestined, born, and steered toward freedom. She wore a gingham frock faded from many washings. There were books under her arm. From a ribbon dangled a floppy, home-made hat.

New Magnetic Alloy Makes Possible Tiny Telephone Receiver to Aid Hearing

A telephone receiver held to the ear by a form that fits into the lower outer cavity of the ear has been developed for the use of the hard of hearing.

The new receiver is exceedingly small, weighing only six-tenths of an ounce with the connecting cord which is but little more conspicuous than an eye-glass ribbon. This comfortable device in combination with a transmitter and batteries gives sound of sufficient loudness to break through the "wall of silence" around a person whose hearing is impaired. It is made possible through use of the newly discovered magnetic alloy "permalloy."

The outfit, of which the receiver is part, is technically known as an audiophone. It was developed for the Western Electric Company in the Bell Telephone laboratories as a by-product of fundamental researches into the field of sound, which are constantly being made. It comprises a microphone, as large as a stack of half a dozen fifty cent pieces, an amplifier containing two tiny vacuum tubes, and the necessary batteries and the "ear" receiver. For use by an individual, the outfit will normally comprise a microphone, worn in the coat lapel, an amplifier in a box, which may be carried in the hand or placed on a table or desk, and the receiver which is worn in the ear. Using it, a person who has lost sixty per cent of his hearing can again follow the conversation in any ordinary sized room. Without the audiophone's aid, such a person, or one of only fifty per cent loss, could not understand anything of an ordinary conversation.

The small receiver without a headband is possible because of a novel use of "the porches of the ear," immortalized by Hamlet. The cartilages of the outer ear are rigid enough so that when an impression is taken and a moulded fitting made and inserted, they will support the little receiver with complete comfort to the wearer.

The use of permalloy, the new nickel-iron alloy used to speed up ocean cable transmission, in the magnetic circuit of the tiny receiver makes it more sensitive. It also prevents acoustic shock.

The talk centered around the various relationships of Abraham. He also showed of what importance the part played by Abraham is in the world's history. Cook said, "most people believe the Jews are the descendants of Abraham. This is not so. They are descendants from two of the twelve tribes of Israel. The ten tribes represented Ephraim, and the other two tribes represented Manasse. Ephraim is believed to be English and all of her possessions and Manasse is American."

Capital Easy to Accumulate Through Systematic Savings

There is nothing mysterious about capital. It has an important sound, but reduced to plain, every-day language, it is nothing more than that which you have saved from yesterday's wages. Whether you have put aside one dollar or five dollars, the amount represents your capital, and there is a world of power behind it.

The accumulation of capital is easy for anyone that is determined to get ahead. The Mercantile Trust Company of California, as a means of encouraging ambitious persons, permits the opening of Savings Accounts for as little as One Dollar. Systematic additions, with four per cent interest compounded semi-annually, will build up a substantial capital in a surprisingly short time.

Supervisors Get Plan to Improve Highway System

SAN DIEGO, March 11.—A plan to provide for the paving and completing of some of the state highways was introduced in a bill to the convention of county boards of supervisors through C. C. Cottrill, consulting highway engineer of the California State Automobile Association.

The plan provides for a sum of $120,000,000 with which to complete the secondary highways, repair and make passable yearly state highways and to further improve by paving and grading others. A period of twelve years is allowed for the raising of this amount.

Cottrill also presented what he called a compromise program which stipulated that the various leaders and heads of State-wide organizations were not authorized to give their vote on this program. The program, however, is within the affirmative view of these heads.

Cottrill named those taking part in the formulation of the compromise program as J. K. Macomber, president of the State Supervisor's Association; William Russell, chairman of its executive committee, and Thomas McCormack, its past president; Earle Houghton, president; A. W. Hardison, past president; and Alexander Johnson, secretary of the California Bureau Federation; S. S. Knight, president of the California State Grange; Ralph Taylor secretary of the Agricultural Legislative Committee; Dudley Seltzer, chairman highway committee of the California Development Association; A. M. Roberts, president California Association of Commercial Secretaries; and representatives of the San Francisco and Los Angeles Chambers of Commerce; the California State Automobile Association and the Automobile Club of Southern California.

After months of effort and many meetings held in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Fresno, and Santa Barbara, the plan is the standard of the solution of the highway

Girl Charges Attack In Big Chicago Hotel

(By Universal Service)

CHICAGO, Mar. 11.—Two wealthy real estate brokers were arrested today for an attack on Miss Irene Sarah, a pretty blonde of 22. They were released on bond but will appear tomorrow to answer to the charges. The men are John W. Hill and Arthur Bundas. Three others are sought.

"They made me dress in pajamas," the girl sobbed out to assistant state attorney Woodward, "and then they tied me to a sofa and snugged at me with their belts." She explained in this way the strange welts and bruises that found on her body.

Although the party given at the Sheridan Plaza Hotel in the fashionable Wilson avenue district was held last week it was not until last night that the police learned of it.

Police were called to a soft-drinking saloon in Cessville where they found Miss Sarah running from one end of the bar to the other, shouting for men to keep away from her. When the police arrived she ran to them for protection. She was taken to a hospital where she told her story.

Miss Sarah met Bundas four years ago while she was a clerk in a department store in Minneapolis. She said he called her up Monday night, March 1st, and asked her if she would fill in a party which was one girl short. She agreed and went to a place designated by Bundas where she picked up a package and then proceeded to the hotel. The package contained liquor she told the police.

When she arrived at the room in the hotel she found Hill whom she had never seen before. Later Bundas and three other men came.

"I was held a prisoner for four days," she said when questioned. "The first thing they did was make me take off my clothes and put on pajamas. After that they attacked me. I was tied to a sofa and the men snugged their belts at me."

"Finally the manager of the hotel had Hill and I removed to a hospital. They took us down the freight elevator and sent us in a taxi."

problem which now confronts California's present and future highway system, Cottrill pointed out.

THRILL OF OUTDOORS AT CALIFORNIA

A western film that is different from all the others, full of pep and humor, with all the heroic qualities of the American cowboy, is "The Enchanted Hill," the new outdoor thriller which comes to the California Theatre, for two weeks starting today.

It is a Paramount production of the enormously popular story of the same name by Peter B. Kyne, which ran serially in the Metropolitan Magazine. Irvin Willat, remembered for his direction of "South of 36," wielded the megaphone on this one and lined up a splendid cast, headed by Jack Holt, Florence Vidor, Noah Beery and Mary Brian.

Filmed in the colorful desert country of New Mexico—the actual locale of the story—the picture shows in stirring and melodramatic fashion how warfare on the cattle ranches today has progressed from the old stereotyped methods.

No longer is a quick trigger and a fast horse sufficient for a cowboy to hold his own against his enemies. And so, when Jack Holt, ranch owner and excavator, is forced to protect his property against a band of invaders, he uses machine guns and airplanes. These are modern innovations that make the old West rapidly disappearing.

Action is the thrilling keynote of "The Enchanted Hill," but the love interest has not been overlooked. In fact, the romance between Holt and Miss Vidor, complicated as it is by their enmity for each other, is one of the most human and sympathetic love stories ever filmed on the screen. Make it a point to see this picture! You are sure to enjoy it.

Other features on the same program include "Papa, Be Good," Glenn Tryon's funniest comedy; "Felix Keeps on Walking," a Felix the cat cartoon; "International News" and Larry Canelo, at the organ.

State Employee In Toils of Law For Income Tax

(By Universal Service)
SACRAMENTO, Mar. 11.—Bert L. Greer, Sacramento politician, state employee in the office of Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan and a central figure in the government probe of the local prohibition enforcement office last year, was today indicted by the federal grand jury on charges of wilfully evading the income tax law in 1922 and 1923 when his taxable net income was said to have been in excess of $5,000.

Greer and his cousin, Walter W. Greer, former federal prohibition enforcement chief in northern California, were jointly indicted here last year on charges of extorting money from bootleggers and filing false expense claims against the federal government. Walter Greer was deposed as federal day agent but the prosecution failed to obtain convictions in the United States District Court.

The indictment on which Judge Frank H. Kerrigan issued a bench warrant for Greer's arrest this afternoon, charged the state employee with failing to make tax returns, though he had a "net taxable income" in excess of $1,000 in 1922 and 1923.

In 1923, state records show that Greer's salary as the Secretary of State's office, which is not subject to the income tax law, is $1,800 a year.

PARIS, March 10.—French light-houses are rapidly killing off game birds, who attracted by the powerful beams of light, dash themselves to death against the windows of the towers. Whole flocks of migrating birds are found dead at the foot of French light-houses.

"In one night, 6,000 birds were killed by the Cape Gris-Nez light. This landmark was frequently mentioned in the newspapers last summer as the starting point for Gertrude Ederle's trans-channel attempts.

A campaign has been started in the Paris press to have light-houses painted white, and to place reflectors outside the towers which will throw lights on them making them visible to the birds. This system which was adopted in Germany before the war, reduced bird mortality by nearly three-quarters.

Course In Public Schools On Marriage Will Cure Divorce Evil Says Northern Judge

(By Universal Service)

OAKLAND, Cal., Mar. 11.—Education children in the public grade schools to avoid divorce in their adult lives.

"That is the new solution for America's divorce troubles," advanced here today by Superior Judge Warren V. Tryon of Del Norte County who is sitting in special sessions.

"Reading, writing, arithmetic and marriage."

"That, according to the Judge, is the curriculum he will establish in all schools.

"A permanent cure for the divorce epidemic," Judge Tryon said today, "can be made in the school room of today. Students from the first grade onward should be taught the sacredness of the marriage vow."

"A regular course in the sacredness of marriage."

Supervisor Judge H. V. Alvares took under advisement the suit of Law Yee Sun, Richmond Annex Chinese, against Mr. and Mrs. Joe Matteucci and Steve Matteucci of this city. Clara D. Horner and L. D. Winderm are attorneys for the defendants.

In his suit, Law declares that the Matteuccis leased a building in the Richmond Annex to him and he later paid a deposit of $1000 for faithful performance of the lease.

District Attorney A. B. Tinning on the witness stand on Wednesday, declared that he entered the establishment operated by Law on one instance and found a group of about 100 Chinese watching the drawing of a lottery.

Tinning said that he informed the owners that the place would have to be closed or he would prosecute, so Joe Matteucci closed Law out of the building. Horner stated that Ernie Lun, agent for Law admitted on the witness stand that the place had been rented for the purpose of conducting a lottery.

Law is now suing in an effort to regain the $1000 deposited when the lease was drawn up on December 5, 1923.

Chinese Sues On Building Lease

(By Universal Service)

PALO ALTO, March 11.—The self made man, the individual business genius, is gone. His day is past. Instead the crying demand of the business world is for the college trained man able and equipped to meet the demand of changed industrial conditions.

These are among the statements made here today by David Huston, president of the Bell Telephone and Securities Companies, and Secretary of Agriculture and the Treasury in President Wilson's cabinet.

While pointing out the necessity for real effort on the part of graduate students in competition with those who worked their way up. Without the advantage of training, Huston declared "that the business man with college training will rise more quickly and advance further than the one who acquires knowledge solely through experience."

General Butler Gives Version of Arrest of Colonel Williams At Party In Honor of the General

LOS ANGELES, March 11.—In a brief statement to the press today General Smedley D. Butler, commandant of the San Diego Marine Corps base, gave his version of the arrest of Colonel Alexander Williams of the Fourth Marine regiment, following a dinner given at San Diego by Colonel Williams in General Butler's honor, at which pre-arranged cocktails were said to have been served.

General Butler denied reports that he had violated his host's hospitality, and blamed a hotel scene for the incident which has caused nation-wide comment, particularly in Washington.

"I have made no statement in this affair," General Butler said, "but as long as reports have been circulated that I placed an officer under arrest, while a guest in his home, I will state that this is not so."

"Anything that occurred in the home of this officer had nothing whatever to do with this action. The unfortunate incident occurred in a public hotel, where I was not a guest of this officer."

While General Butler's statement was being prepared today reports from San Diego have what is said to be an authentic account of the General's version of the affair.

According to the San Diego report, when General Butler arrived at the dinner party at the home of Colonel Williams on Saturday night, which was attended by two score naval and marine officers, he discovered that cocktails were being served. The report states that most of the party drank but one cocktail after the general's arrival.

General Butler withdrew from the dining room before the dinner was concluded, according to the story.

Following the dinner the entire party, excepting Colonel Williams, adjourned to the Hotel Del Coronado, where dancing was in progress. General Butler watched the dancing from a mixed crowd of officers and civilians. Colonel Williams' appearance at the entrance of the ballroom, caused a commotion, and he was subsequently escorted from the hotel to an automobile by two brother officers and sent to his home, the story states.

Much comment is said to have been occasioned by the incident, and following a conference of Marine officers called by General Butler on Monday, Colonel Williams was placed under technical arrest. Affidavits bearing on the incident were forwarded to Marine Corps Headquarters in Washington, it was said.

Whether or not the charges against Colonel Williams will be the basis of a court martial is up to navy department officials in Washington to decide.

Builders Hold First Luncheon

The first weekly luncheon of the Richmond Builders' Exchange was held at the exchange hall yesterday. Over fifty were present, twice as many as were expected.

E. H. Higgins, president of the exchange, presided as chairman of the day and the luncheon was prepared by Frank Wimberly. Building problems of this district were discussed and it was decided to continue the weekly gatherings. The purpose of the meetings is to furnish some place for the builders to meet and work out their problems as well as a definite place where they can be found during the day. They will meet every day between 12:30 and 1:30 and serve luncheon once a week.

War Declared On Secret Bodies In California Schools

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 11.—Declaring that illegal fraternities and sororities exist at the present time in "practically all the large high schools of California," A. C. Olney, state commissioner of secondary schools, today declared formal war on these secret organizations and announced he will demand remedial action by all high school, junior high school and junior college principals when they meet in annual convention at Pasadena, April 19 to 23.

"Secret fraternities and sororities are prohibited in California high schools by state law," asserted Commissioner Olney. "Yet they exist in practically all our large high schools. Some solution to this situation must be found at once and this constant violation of the law must be stopped."

"The Elders of those students who are openly breaking the anti-fraternity law don't appear to be doing very well themselves with enforcement of the prohibition amendments. This is all the more reason, perhaps, why strict obedience of law should be taught to our children in the public schools."

Practical plans to wipe out the secret fraternity evil will be suggested at the Pasadena convention, said Olney, by Glen O. Perkins, principal of the San Diego High school; Howard O. Welty, principal of Oakland Technical High school, and E. W. Oliver, principal of Los Angeles City High school.

Takes Eight Years To Reach Divorce Court Records Show

(By Universal Service)

SACRAMENTO, March 10.—California couples destined for the divorce court reach that destination, at the present rate of marital disagreements, on an average of 8 years from the date they take their marriage vows, according to an estimate made today by L. F. Ross, director of the State Bureau of vital statistics.

Ross considered in his compilation only that percentage of total marriages which end in divorce, announcing that the couples headed toward legal separation arrive at the parting of the ways no later than about a year and a half sooner on the average than they did forty years ago.

The average couple divorced in the eighties or the nineties managed to keep domestic battles out of court for an average of nine and a half years of wedded existence, according to statistics. It only takes eight years, concluded Ross, for the modern couple predestined for separation to reach the same goal.

Income Returns Must Be Filed By March 15

The following important information is from the office of John P. McLaughlin, the Internal Revenue Collector, First District of California:

The period of filing income tax returns ends on Monday, March 15th, 1926. To avoid penalty, the return, accompanied by at least one quarter of the tax due or estimated tax due in the case of net incomes in excess of $5,000 must be in the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue, (John P. McLaughlin) not later than Monday, March 15th, 1926.

In the case of individuals whose net income for 1925 was $5,000 or less, a complete return is required on Form 1040A. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has granted to individuals whose net income was in excess of $5,000, and the corporations, until May 15, 1926, to file a complete return. However, tentative returns in such cases are required on or before March 15, and must be accompanied by at least one fourth of the estimated amount of tax due.

If the estimated tax is less than shown to be due on the completed return, the difference will bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent until paid. Tentative returns should be made on the usual form—1040 for individuals whose net income exceeded $5,000 and 1120 for domestic corporations—plainly marked at the top "TENTATIVE" it should contain a statement of the estimated amount of tax believed by the taxpayer to be due, and be sworn to before a Notary Public, or other person authorized to administer an oath. No other data need be given.

When a taxpayer files a tentative return and fails to file a complete return within the period of the extension granted, the complete return, when filed, is subject to the penalties prescribed for delinquents. Copies of the form have been mailed taxpayers, but failure to receive a form does not relieve a taxpayer of his obligations to file a return on time. Copies may be obtained at the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue in the Custom House, San Francisco, or at any of the Internal Revenue Branch offices throughout the District.

For failure to file a return on time the penalty is 25 per cent of the amount of the tax unless a later return is filed and it is satisfactorily shown to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue that such failure was due to a reasonable cause and not to willful neglect. If a taxpayer exercised ordinary business care and prudence and nevertheless was unable to file a return within the time prescribed, then the delay was due to a reasonable cause. For willful failure to make a return the penalty is not more than $10,000, or imprisonment for not more than five years, or both, and, in addition, 25 per cent of the amount of tax. For willfully making a false or fraudulent return, the penalty is not more than $10,000, or imprisonment for not more than five years, or both, and in addition, 50 per cent of the amount of tax. If there is a deficiency, there is added to the tax interest at the rate of 6 per cent a year from the date prescribed for the payment of the tax to the date of the deficiency when assessed. In addition there is added 5 per cent of the amount of the deficiency if due to negligence, but without intent to defraud. If due to fraud, the amount added in addition is 50 per cent of the deficiency.

Strom Announces Cut In Hudson-Essex Prices

In a telegram received here yesterday by J. P. Strom, local Hudson and Essex dealer, a cut in prices starting on March 10, was announced. The prices of the Hudson and Essex has been cut several times during recent months and according to factory executives these cuts are possible through the increasing volume of production and constantly improved methods of manufacture, which reduce costs.

The new price cut is $50 on the Hudson and Essex cars. Fully equipped and delivered the cost is $1379, for the Hudson coach; $909 for the popular Essex coach; $1639 for the Hudson brougham; and $1875 for the Hudson seven passenger sedan. These prices include freight, war tax, front and rear bumpers, automatic windshield wiper, rear view mirror, transmission lock, radiator shutters, motorometer and combination stop and tail light. Strom points out that all prices are quoted "at your door" instead of F. O. B. factory.

Ourselves and Industry Putting Capital to Work

By E. E. Lincoln

Idle capital is no more productive than an idle man, and yet many owners of capital are not in a position to employ it in business for themselves. They can put it to work only by entrusting it to others.

At the same time, many men who have the ability to use large amounts of capital for the advantage both of themselves and of their communities do not possess sufficient funds of their own to enable them to engage in business without assistance. They need somebody to give them the necessary financial backing.

One way in which a business man may get such assistance is through his bank. When the bank makes him a loan, it shares for the time being in the risks of his business. A bank, however, cannot afford to tie up its depositors' funds for an indefinite period. The loans which it makes must usually be repaid at the end of a few months.

Business men frequently need these short term credits, but they also need capital that will be invested permanently in their enterprises. The manufacturer, for example, must have the permanent use of funds to enable him to invest in a tract of land, erect a building, and install machinery. He cannot depend on his bank to finance these operations.

One way by which he may get the permanent use of more capital is to form a partnership with one or more persons who have ample financial resources and who are willing to share in the risks and profits of his business.

The partnership possesses many advantages over the one-man concern. It not only provides a larger amount of capital, but it permits specialization in management. One of the partners, for instance, may look after production, and another may give his entire attention to sales, each doing the work for which he is best fitted. But the important business units today are no longer the one-man concern or the small partnership. Our manufacturing, mining and railway companies have attained huge proportions, and they require millions of dollars where formerly a few thousands would suffice.

The largest steel company in the United States employs nearly two billion dollars of capital in its operations. No man in the world is rich enough to own it, and, even if there were such an individual, it is hardly probable that he would be willing to invest his entire fortune in a single undertaking.

This great business concern, therefore, has obtained its capital from the investments made by more than a hundred and fifty thousand people in stocks and bonds. Thus a large army of investors share in the risks as well as in the earnings of the business. So long as the company prospers they will receive their dividends and interest. If it should meet with financial reverses, the stockholders, who are the owners, might have to do without their dividends.

The number of people who are thus individually assuming a small part of the risks of business in this country by investing their surplus funds is not definitely known, but is rapidly increasing. Probably four or five million is a fair estimate.

This wide distribution of ownership and consequent risks calls for constantly better management and more intelligent workers.

Without this willingness on the part of millions to share in the risks of modern business, it would be impossible for us to enjoy the abundance of useful goods of all kinds which large-scale production, utilization of machinery, and division of labor have made possible.

OAKLAND, March 11.—Mary McCaulliffe, pretty University of California co-ed, who recently married Harold T. # Lack of Funds Promises to Make Tunney-Stribling Battle a Second Shelby Montana Affair Says Damon

By DAMON RIVYON
(Copyright 1926, Universal Service)
MIAMI, Fla., Mar. 11.—As these lines are set down, it looks as if the much mooted struggle between Gene Tunney, the ex-marine and young Stribling, the recently married Georgia schoolboy, scheduled for tomorrow night is what you might call a bust.

Mrs. Jesse Baugh, the promoter, a rotund, busy looking gentleman from Indiana, has just hastened from his headquarters in the second Tamiami Hotel, pushing his way through a knot of sorrowful parties with claims of one kind and another against the enterprise, announcing that he was going to see the Chief of Police.

As I gathered from the hurrying Mr. Baugh's remarks, he is intended trying to force the boys to fight by invoking the majesty of the law. It now lacks some minutes to 4:30 o'clock, and Mr. Baugh has not returned, but even Mr. Johnny Cox, the publicity director for the proceedings, and the most optimistic of men, says he has head dubiously over the outlook.

The reason the proposed and carefully planned struggle between Tunney and Stribling seems to be a bust at this time is the same reason why the memorable struggle between Jack Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons, at Shelby, Montana, a couple of seasons back, threatened to be a bust to the last minute—money. Or perhaps I should say lack of money.

Mr. Jesse Baugh, the promoter, is the man with the lack. It is one of the largest lacks since those historic days in the oil fields of Montana. Mr. Baugh promised to give Gene Tunney the magnificent sum of $50,000 for galloping ten rounds, to no decision, with Stribling, while Stribling was to have received $35,000.

It was Mr. Jesse Baugh's first attempt as a pugilistic entrepreneur. You can judge that from the amount of money he offered the gladiators. Both Tunney and Stribling have gladly accepted the offer, but the money has not been forthcoming for a lot less. Still, Mr. Baugh shouldn't have promised.

It seems that Tunney, through his manager, the well known Mr. William Gibson, has already received a fair amount of money on account. And Stribling, representing his son, W. L. Tunney, got $25,000 for signing those papers, Stribling, $15,000 since then Mr. William Gibson has borrowed $35,000 of the promoter. It is said, while $50,000 more has been doled out to Stribling in sums of $1,000 each, in accordance with his contract.

Meantime, Mr. Jesse Baugh spent about $25,000 to build an arena at Hialeah, seating 28,300 persons and it is said that the money thus expended was taken from the advance sale of seats. It must eventually be accounted for, to be sure. That is the trouble with money—it must eventually be accounted for.

At this writing, the promoters would seem to be holding the well known bag, unless Mr. Baugh can have the law on them. It may be recalled that the promoters out Shelby way spoke of having the law on Mr. Dempsey and his manager, Mr. Kearns, if they didn't enter the arena on the day scheduled.

ALUMNI BAND HAS PRACTICE

Final practice for the alumni band that will appear at the high school alumni basketball game tonight, was held last night under the direction of Walter Siegel.

There were over forty members present at the meeting and the evening was enjoyably spent in practicing the Funeral March to be the feature at the game when the high school team loses — if they do lose.

Siegel expects to have about 50 members of the band present at the game tonight and he asks that all members who are going to play in the band to meet at the school bandhouse at 7 o'clock to get ready to appear upon the floor.

The presence of two bands upon the floor will lead to some lively competition.

TEASE-BAKER NUPTIALS HELD

The couple will make their home in Martinez for the present.

Helen Wills In Fourth Round of Nice Tournament

(By Universal Service)
Special Cable Dispatch
NICE, France, March 11.—Helen Wills won her third consecutive singles victory from an English opponent in two days when she defeated Miss Jean Ridley 6-0, 3-2, this afternoon to enter the fourth round of the Nice tournament. The American champion disposed of two other British stars, Miss Helen Shirley and Miss Sally Maynard, yesterday.

Although Miss Wills was looked upon as a certain winner her overwhelming victory came as something of a surprise. Miss Ridley had just returned from a South African competitive tour which she made in company with a number of British stars and was at the top of the game. She had been looked upon as one of the few English players entered likely to extend the American player.

Paired with U. H. Kingsley, Miss Wills had earlier in the day registered another overwhelming victory over Miss Stanley and E. A. Dean. The flawless team work of the former pair gave them a quick 6-0, 6-0, victory.

The Wills-Kingsley combination comprises the strongest mixed doubles team in which the American champion has figured during her Riviera competition. It is now looked upon as the most formidable entry in this division now competing.

Leather Pushers Make More Money Than Professions

(By Universal Service)
SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 11.—It's more profitable to be a leather pusher in California, if you're a good one, than it is to be a doctor, a lawyer, a politician or even a bootlegger, according to an estimate today by Walter A. Yarwood, secretary of the State Athletic Commission, showing that the income of some boxes in this state went as high as $30,000 during the last twelve months.

Yarwood's estimate placed Ace Hindkins, the Los Angeles lightweight, at the top of California's list from the standpoint of bread earning skill. Fidel Labarba, flyweight champion, and Mushy Callahan, lightweight came next.

Other fighters who, according to Yarwood's records were handsomely compensated for the blows they gave and received, in 1925, are: Jimmy McLarnin, George Rivers, Billy Alger, Joe Roche, Bert Colima, Sailor Hoffman and Frankie Campbell.

Love Game Costs Martinez Man Seventy Dollars

MARTINEZ, March 11.—A case in which two young women played a love game, was presented to the Martinez police Wednesday night when John Benson, employee of the Shell Oil company, lost $70 after being accosted by one of the young ladies.

In his report to the police, Benson said that he was walking along Howard street when a young woman suddenly embraced him and after doing so managed to gain possession of the $70 which he had on his person.

Deputy Sheriff R. L. McNamara and Patrolman Rader claim to have information concerning two young women who are believed to be the ones operating the little "love game."

Miss Lena Richardson, 22 year old hairdresser of 1214 Twelfth street, Redwood City was held but Benson was unable to identify her as the one who had accosted him. Miss Richardson declared that she had never seen Benson before when she was quizzed as to the loss reported by Benson.

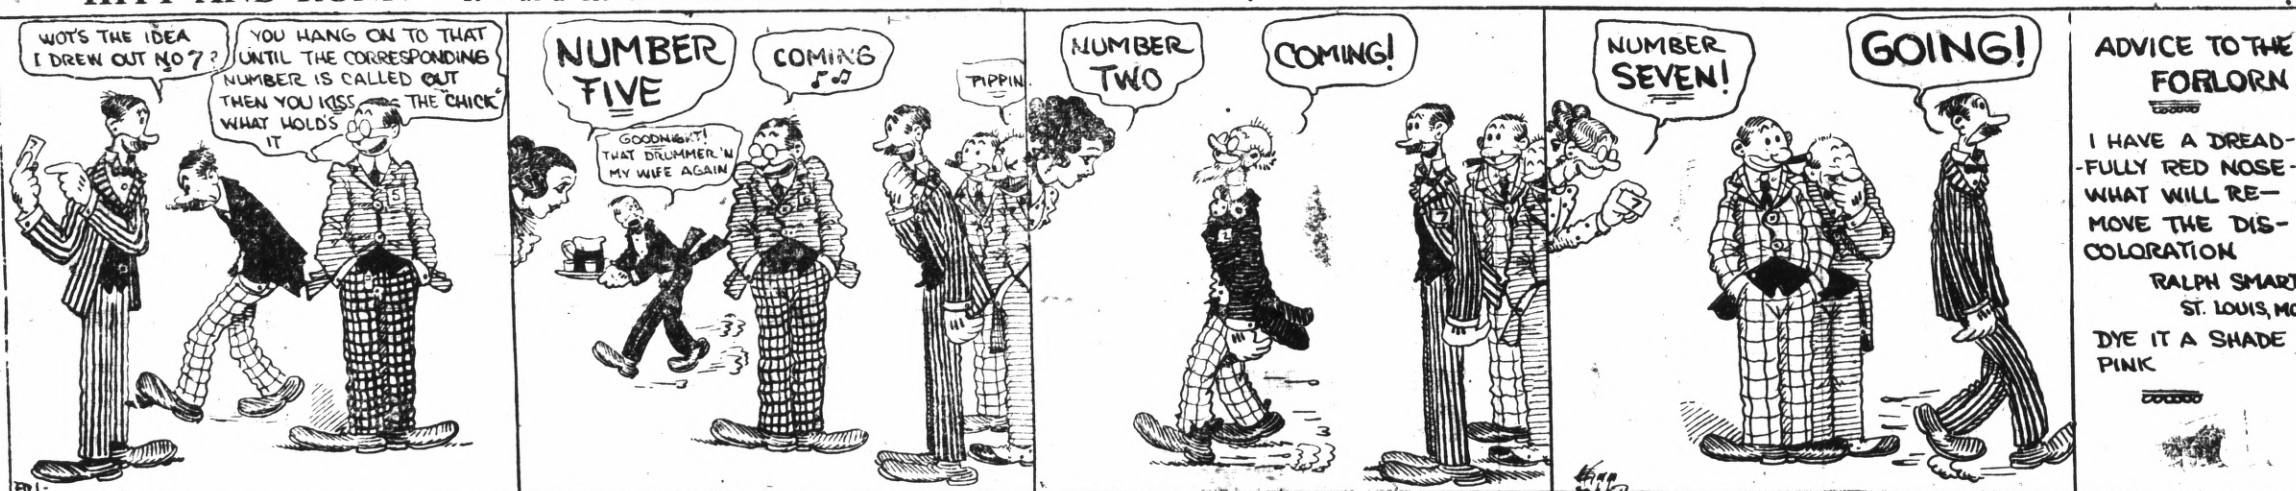

The other women supposed to be associated with the affair has left the city in a machine. Clue to her identity has been obtained and her arrest is expected soon.

HEEDED MOTHER'S ADVICE

Oakland, Cal., Feb. 26, 1926.
For more than a year I suffered from hemorrhage from a tumor. During this time I was treated by several physicians, all of whom agreed that an operation was the only thing that could help me. Neither my husband nor I liked the idea of the knife.

Upon the advice of my mother who, after having an operation on the right side, the wound forming a fistula which had never healed for 14 years, had found complete relief and fistula healed by drinking the Fong Wan Herbs, I decided to try them.

Owing to my terrible condition and my extremely poor health, it took about six months before I was entirely well. I am now in splendid health and my old trouble have been completely vanquished.

I formerly lived at 1805 Howard street, San Francisco, but have recently removed to Oakland. My phone number is Market 6550.

Charges Of Wife Denied by Wylie In Divorce Suit

SAN FRANCISCO, March 11.—C. E. Wylie, local business man, today denied the allegations of cruelty made by his wife, Constance Hart Wylie, in her recently filed divorce suit. In his answer to the suit filed in Superior Court by Attorney Harry I. Stafford, Wylie makes no charges against his wife. Stafford said he would petition the court to bring the case to an immediate trial. The rift in the Wylie domestic affairs which resulted in a divorce action, caused a sensation in local society circles. Wylie also has pending a $250,000 alienation suit directed against Mrs. Benno Hart, his mother-in-law, and Lieutenant Roger Ranshausen, a naval officer.

Gold Quest Fails; Slashes His Wrists

OAKLAND, March 11.—Despondent because he was unable to raise funds to go in quest of a $10,000,000 gold bullion cargo, which he declares is lying in the hold of the schooner General Grant sunk off the Aukland Islands, Eugene C. May, 68, today attempted suicide by slashing his wrists with a razor.

At the Emergency hospital his condition was reported as serious. May told hospital attendants that the schooner General Grant was sunk off the Aukland Islands in 1866. His efforts to raise money to salvage the gold cargo, met only with refusals. May said

Condition of Wife's Face Sends Husband To Jail for 90 Days

OAKLAND, March 11.—Otto Klotz, 40, thought it a great joke to send his wife a telegram reading "I'm married" and then after an absence of a week, return home intoxicated and blackened both of her eyes.

Mrs. Rosa Klotz, with her face marred by black and blue marks, appeared in police court today and started to tell of her husband's treatment, but was abruptly halted by Judge Edward Tyrrell.

"The condition of your face is enough," said the court. "Your husband won't beat you again for at least ninety days," continued Tyrrell, "because he will be in jail."

The Klotz's after ten years of married life were divorced some months ago, but became reconciled. Mrs. Klotz said that when her husband is released from jail ninety days hence he not only will be free so far as his liberty is concerned, but will also be free from further matrimonial obligations.

Another Way to Win a Wager

(By Universal Service)
CHICAGO, March 11.—Harry Langdon, the screen comedian, but Jeanie McPherson, a scenario writer, that he would beat her into Chicago. They were on the same train so Jeanie took the bet. She lost.

Today, as the Santa Fe pulled into the Chicago station, there was Langdon handing onto the cow catcher of the train, while Jeanie was far back in a Pullman.

Both of the cinema personages are on their way east, the comedian to make a picture, and the writer to view the premiere of "The Volga Boatman," for which she prepared the script.

New Vacuum Tube Developments Enable Doctors to Hear and See Heart Beats

The familiar Stethoscope Tubes entering the ears of the Examining Physicians are connected with telephone transmitters through which sounds come from the amplifying apparatus.

A step ahead in the diagnosis of heart and lung sounds is recorded as audiences now listen to heart beats and see them being traced out on a screen.

A point of light on the end of a glass tube traces a wavy pattern whose humps and hollows correspond to the heart beats, and whose irregularities tell the story of health or disease. To assist in the interpretation of the curve, observers hear the sounds of the heart greatly magnified through an electric stethoscope. Every sound of the heart tells its story to the expert diagnostician, and the addition of a visual indicator makes what is heard considerably more vivid. This new appliance for diagnosis was developed for the Western Electric Company in the Bell Telephone Laboratories as another interesting by-product of telephone research.

Its basic elements include a vacuum tube amplifier, similar in a general way to those which speed your voice over long distance telephone lines; a group of wave filters which eliminate undesired sounds, and transmitter and receivers of special design. In the telephone plant, filters are extensively used to enable more than one conversation to be carried over the same long distance circuit. Differing in the requirement that it must pick up sounds from the body rather than from the air, the stethoscopic transmitter hardly resembles the familiar telephone transmitter. Its rubber button is pressed against the patient's body, a soft rubber rim cuts down vibration from the hand which holds it. Since extreme quiet is essential to pick up the tiny sounds of greatest importance, room noises are shut out by fitting the receivers with stethoscope tubes which enter the physician's ears in the familiar manner.

To assemble and coordinate all these elements, several of them entirely new designs, has been the responsibility of Halsey A. Fredrick, D. C. Blatner, and their associates in the Bell Telephone Laboratories, in collaboration with Dr. H. B. Williams, a prominent cardiographer of New York. Principally due to the latter is a device for making permanent records of the sounds. Passing through a wire lying in a magnetic field, the amplified sound currents set the wire into vibration and move a spot of light across a photo film. The wavy line traced on the film gives positive evidence of most abnormal conditions. Physicians have found records made at intervals of value in tracing the progress of treatment.

However, the latest and perhaps the most impressive application of the stethoscope is in connection with the cathode ray oscillograph which makes it possible actually to see the graphic representation of the pulsating heart. Aside from the spectacular aspect of this feature, it promises to become an invaluable aid in diagnosis. It will enable the diagnosing physician, or group of physicians, to check hearing against sight. Simultaneously with hearing the heart beats they may see the pulsations and detect the variations in time and intensity, if any, with more certainty than by hearing alone.

A further and very important use for the electric stethoscope is in connection with physicians whose hearing has become somewhat impaired. It has been found that when people reach the age of about forty in many cases some impairment of hearing begins, and this impairment usually increases with advancing age. By the time physicians have acquired experience and have developed accurate judgment in auscultations, they often find that they have some impairment in hearing and cannot be sure that they are able to hear all the heart and chest sounds that they should hear to make a precise diagnosis.

Even Death Fails To Throw Light On Life of Old Timer

(By Universal Service)
OAKLAND, Cal., Mar. 11.—Death will not lift the veil of mystery that for decades has surrounded the life of Mrs. Mary B. Baldwin, 93 year old California pioneer.

Today in the old family home here where for years she lived a strange, secluded life, she lies dead, and not even the neighbors or old friends have been apprised of her passing.

Tomorrow she will be cremated. There will be no friends there to flowers, no music, nor will a minister pronounce a prayer and eulogy.

L. F. Moore, a friend of years standing, will read a brief poem: "Let me live in a house by the side of the road and be a friend to man."

Mrs. Baldwin asked that as her dying request.

"Let me go like the falling of a leaf," she told her white haired son, John F. Baldwin, who with her daughters has shared the pioneer's seclusion.

Mrs. Baldwin crossed the plains on horseback 73 years ago.

She saw many hardships and many exciting events, but these too were shrouded with mystery today when the son was questioned.

The Baldwin family once held a rich land grant at Brentwood. Fifty years ago it was sold for a modest fortune. Today that same land is valued at about $20,000,000.

During her young womanhood Mrs. Baldwin was prominent in northern California society.

She was related to Major J. Hensley, U. S. A., widely known in early history of California.

More than three decades ago she withdrew from the world.

To her friends and neighbors she became a figure of deep mystery.

There was much speculation as to the value of her fortune. She never revealed the truth about that. Wild tales of great wealth were built up by gossip.

Today the children, all furrowed and white haired by time, kept within the house of death, behind drawn shutters, and prepared for the simple reading of the poem tomorrow.

And the neighbors, seeing the windows shrouded, asked: "What new mystery is this?"

OLDEST WOMAN DRUGGIST IN STATE DIES

(By Universal Service)
STOCKTON, Cal., March 11.—The oldest licensed woman pharmacist in California, if not in the west, is dead at Sonoma. Mrs. Annie Mourin, resident of that place since 1875, died, during the night, of a heart attack. She was 73 years old and had lived in the state since 1851. Her husband was an old-time Sonoma druggist and she was licensed more than forty years ago. After his death she carried on the business for years. A son now operates it. A daughter-in-law, Mrs. Otto J. Mourin, is president of the Alameda district federation of women's clubs.

Three prospective candidates have nomination papers out for the El Cerrito municipal election for April 12, it was learned yesterday. There are two incumbent trustees who have filed petition.

$100,000 Fire Started By Hot Grease In S. F.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 11.—Fire late today threatened to sweep the entire block bounded by Davis, Drum, Clay and Washington streets when an explosion of hot grease in the potato chip factory of the J. E. Shoemaker Company located on Davis street started a spectacular blaze.

The fire appeared to be of such properties that three alarms were sounded. The flames were extinguished after an hour of hard fighting. The loss is estimated between $25,000 and $100,000.

Shoots Wife and Turns Gun On Self

(By Universal Service)
CHICAGO, March 11.—Joseph Kelley shot his wife dead tonight while his three children looked on. Then bending over her body, he gently kissed her lips, uttered a prayer and took his own life.

According to the story told by the children, ranging in age from ten to thirteen years, their father had been spending a large part of his salary for liquor. His wife upbraided him for it tonight. He flew into a rage and sprang at her, but she fled into a bedroom.

He followed her and seized a revolver and shot her in the arm. She fell, but recovered herself and staggered to the living room, where her husband inflicted the death wound, and killed himself.

CHAPLAIN HAS NEW EVIDENCE

(By Universal Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, March 11.—Numerous letters now in the hands of defense attorneys acting for Chaplain Orville I. Clappitt on trial by court martial for making statements in connection with an investigation regarding his alleged intimacies with Lucille Swallow of Lawrence, Kansas are expected to upset the prosecution's case and react in the Chaplain's favor.

It is intimated that these letters have come from former sweethearts of the Cyclone girl and when they are read in court they will automatically free the chaplain of the charges that have been made against him.

The letters are said to contain ending terms and intimate reference to Miss Swallow's friendship for the recipient.

Despite the fact that he demanded an open hearing, all of Miss Swallow's testimony was heard behind closed doors. The trial will be resumed April 1.

Wilbur to Pass On Charges of Col. William

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, March 11.—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur will pass upon the charges of drunkenness being brought by Brigadier General S. Butler against Colonel Alexander William it was learned today.

Papers in the case will be received by Major General John J. Lejeune, commandant of the Marine Corps and passed on by him with recommendation to Secretary Wilbur.

The cause of action taken by General Butler is interpreted here as indicating that he regards Col. Williams case as one justifying a Court martial.

For minor infractions it is pointed out General Butler could have placed Col. Williams under arrest for ten days.

Within the continental limits of the U. S. only the Secretary of Navy and the President may order a general court martial.

Col. Williams is an officer with a remarkable record of efficient service. He was appointed to the Marine Corps October 12, 1899 from New York. He early saw action in the field in the Phil-

Rockefeller Starts Million Dollar Fund For Better Education

PROVIDENCE, March 11.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., as a member of the Senate of Phi Beta Kappa, university honor fraternity, started tonight a campaign for a fund of $1,000,000 to improve teaching and studying in American colleges and schools. The fund is to be completed at the Sesquiennial Celebration of the Fraternity next December.

Rockefeller, making the announcement at the dinner of the Fraternity in the Turks Head club, declared mediocre teaching and poor studying in American colleges were responsible for lack of standings of scholarship.

One section of the fund provides an annual prize of $10,000 for distinction in teaching.

Another section of the fund will be used to complete the national headquarters of the Fraternity at William and Mary College in Virginia.
